I dedicate this book to my uncle Ramanath N. Kamath, who has been my rock since childhood. Also, heartfelt gratitude to Professor Dange, an ex-IIT mentor, who guided me on the Theory of Machines and laid a solid foundation for my perception about engineering and technology 20 years ago.

About the Author

A senior content writer by profession, Aravind Shenoy's core interests are technical writing, content writing, content development, web design, and business analysis. He was born and raised in Mumbai and currently resides there. A music buff - he loves listening to Rock n' Roll and Rap. Oasis, R.E.M, The Doors, Dire Straits, Coldplay, Jimi Hendrix, 3 Doors Down, Chemical Brothers, U2, Guns n' Roses, and Michael Jackson rule his playlists. An engineering graduate from the Manipal Institute of Technology and an author of several books, he is a keen learner and believes that there is always a steep learning curve as Life is all about learning. In summary, as he quips, "The most important thing is to be happy - it's all that matters. After all, we are here for a good time, not a long time."

About the Technical Reviewer

Anselm Bradford is a front-end web developer passionate about open source projects for government, nonprofits, and higher education.

Currently, he is developing tools to help protect consumers from misleading and illegal financial practices. He has experience working on social services discovery for Code for America, user research at Imgur, and digital media curriculum development at Auckland University of Technology.

Anselm is the lead author on the book HTML5 Mastery (Apress, 2011).

Acknowledgments

I would like to thank the entire team at Apress, including Louise; Nancy; Jim; and specifically the technical reviewer, Anselm Bradford, for their exemplary work on this 12th book of mine. It has indeed been awesome collaborating with them on this book, and their efforts mean a lot when it comes to making this book a success.

A special thanks to my sister Aruna, too, remembering our childhood times, and for tolerating my idiosyncrasies while growing up.
